LCTI hosts annual DECA prom fashion show
Students modeled formal wear provided by Le Femme Boutique and Men’s Wearhouse

SCHNECKSVILLE, Pa. | Lehigh Career & Technical Institute students strutted their stuff Friday (March 22) in the sixth annual Lehigh DECA Prom Fashion Show. The event featured the hottest looks of prom season 2019, as well as professional attire guaranteed to help students score the perfect summer internship.

About 30 members of DECA, one of LCTI's seven career and technical student organizations, walked in the fashion show for an audience of fellow students and school staff. The show featured clothes provided by Le Femme Boutique, of Allentown, and Men’s Wearhouse, of Whitehall Township, as well as hair and makeup by LCTI's Cosmetology students.

Marketing & Business Education teacher and Lehigh DECA advisor Cyndee Barkley helped students organize the fashion show, which was held in the school’s small cafeteria. Web Design/Web Programming teacher Joe Peregrin served as the show emcee.
